

As there is no true Cuckold but calamity, so beauties a flower; The Lady bad take away the foole, therefore I lay againe, take her away.

Ol. Sir, I bad them take away you.

Cl. Misprision in the highest degree. Lady, Cucullus non facit monachum: that's as much to say, as I weare not motley in my braine: good Madona, giue mee leaue to prone you a foole.

Ol. Can you do it?

Cl. Dexteriously, good Madona.

Ol. Make your prooffe.

Cl. I must catechize you for it. Madona, Good my Mouse of vertue answer mee.

Ol. Well sir, for want of other idlenesse, Ile bide your prooffe.

Cl. Good Madona, why mournst thou?

Ol. Good foole, for my brothers death.

Cl. I thinke his soule is in hell, Madona.

Ol. I know his soule is in heauen, foole.

Cl. The more foole (Madona) to mourne for your Brothers soule, being in heauen. Take away the Foole, Gentlemen.

Ol. What thinke you of this foole Maluolio, doth he not mend?

Mal. Yes, and shall do, till the pangs of death shake him: Infirmitie that decays the wife, doth euer make the better foole.

Cl. God send you sir, a speedie Infirmitie, for the better increasing your folly: Sir Toby will be sworn that I am no Fox, but he will not passe his word for two pence that you are no Foole.

Ol. How say you to that Maluolio?

Mal. I maruell your Ladyship takes delight in such a barren rascall: I saw him put down the other day, with an ordinary foole, that has no more braine then a stone. Looke you now, he's out of his gard already: viles you laugh and minifter occasion to him, he is gag'd. I protest I take these Wisemen, that crow to at these set kinde of foolles, no better then the foolles Zanies.

Ol. O you are sicke of selfe-loue Maluolio, and taste with a dissembler's appetite. To be generous, guiltlesse, and of free disposition, is to take those things for Bird-bolts, that you deeme Cannon bullets: There is no slander in an allow'd foole, though he do nothing but rayle; nor no rayling, in a knowne discreet man, though hee do nothing but reprove.

Cl. Now Mercury indue thee with leasing, for thou speak'st well of foolles.

Enter Maria.

Mar. Madam, there is at the gate, a young Gentleman, much desires to speake with you.

Ol. From the Count Orsino, is it?

Ma. I know not (Madam) 'tis a faire young man, and well attended.

Ol. Who of my people hold him in delay?

Ma. Sir Toby Madam, your kinsman.

Ol. Fetch him off I pray you, he speaks nothing but madman: Fic on him. Go you Maluolio; If it be as suit from the Count, I am sicke, or not at home. What you will, to dismiss it.

Exit Maluolio.

Now you see sir, how your fooling grows old, & people dislike it.

Cl. Thou hast spoke for vs (Madona) as if thy eldest sonne should be a foole; whose scull, Ioue cramme with braines, for heere he comes.

Enter Sir Toby.

One of thy kin has a most weake Pia-mater.

Ol. By mine honor halfe drunke. What is he at the gate Cosin?

To. A Gentleman.

Ol. A Gentleman? What Gentleman?

To. 'Tis a Gentleman heere. A plague o' these pickie herring: How now Sot.

Cl. Good Sir Toby.

Ol. Cosin, Cosin, how haue you come so carely by this Lethargie?

To. Letcherie, I desie Letchery: there's one at the gate.

Ol. I marry, what is he?

To. Let him be the diuell and he will, I care not: giue me faith say I. Well, it's all one.

Ol. What's a drunken man like, foole?

Cl. Like a drown'd man, a foole, and a madde man: One draught aboue heate, makes him a foole, the second maddes him, and a third drownes him.

Ol. Go thou and seeke the Crowner, and let him sitte o'my Coz: for he's in the third degree of drinke: hee's drown'd: go looke after him.

Cl. He is but mad yet Madona, and the foole shall looke to the madman.

Enter Maluolio.

Mal. Madam, yond young fellow swears hee will speake with you. I told him you were sicke, he takes on him to vnderstand so much, and therefore comes to speake with you. I told him you were asleepe, he seems to haue a fore knowledge of that too, and therefore comes to speake with you. What is to be said to him Ladie, hee's fortified against any deniall.

Ol. Tell him, he shall not speake with me.

Mal. He's beene told so: and hee sayes hee'll stand at your doore like a Sheriffs post, and be the supporter to a bench, but hee'll speake with you.

Ol. What kinde o'man is he?

Mal. Why of mankind.

Ol. What manner of man?

Mal. Of verie ill manner: hee'll speake with you, will you, or no.

Ol. Of what personage, and yeres is he?

Mal. Not yet old enough for a man, nor yong enough for a boy: as a squash is before tis a pescod, or a Codling when tis almost an Apple: 'Tis with him in standing water, betwene boy and man. He is verie well-fauour'd, and he speaks verie shrewishly: One would thinke his mothers milke were scarce out of him.

Ol. Let him approach: Call in my Gentlewoman.

Mal. Gentlewoman, my Lady calles.

Enter Maria.

Ol. Giue me my vaile: come throw it ore my face, Wee'll once more heare Orsino's Embassie.

Enter Viola.

Vi. The honorable Ladie of the house, which is she?

Ol. Speake to me, I shall answer for her: your will.

Vi. Most radiant, exquisite, and vnmatchable beautie. I pray you tell me if this bee the Ladie of the house, for I neuer saw her. I would bee loath to cast away my speech: for besides that it is excellently well pend, I haue taken great paines to con it. Good Beauties, let mee be staine no scorne; I am very comptible, euen to the least sinister vsage.

Ol. Whence came you sir?

Vi. I can say little more then I haue studied, & that question's out of my part. Good gentle one, giue mee modest assurance, if you be the Ladie of the house, that may proceede in my speech.

Ol. Are you a Comedian?

Vi. No my profound heart: and yet (by the verie phangs of malice, I sweare) I am not that I play. Are you the Ladie of the house?

Ol. If I do not vsurpe my selfe, I am.

Vi. Most certaine, if you are she, you do vsurp your selfe: for what is yours to bestowe, is not yours to reserve. But this is from my Commission: I will on with my speech in your praise, and then shew you the heart of my message.

Ol. Come to what is important in't: I forgive you the praise.

Vi. Alas, I tooke great paines to studie it, and 'tis Poeticall.

Ol. It is the more like to be feigned, I pray you keep it in. I heard you were lawcy at my gates, & allowd your approach rather to wonder at you, then to heare you. If you be not mad, be gone: if you haue reason, be breefe: 'tis not that time of Moone with me, to make one in so skipping a dialogue.

Mal. Will you hoyst saile sir, here lies your way.

Vi. No good swabber, I am to hull here a little longer. Some mollification for your Giant, sweete Ladie; tell me your minde, I am a messenger.

Ol. Sure you haue some hiddeous matter to deliuer, when the curse of it is so fearefull. Speake your office.

Vi. It alone concerns your care: I bring no ouerture of warre, no taxation of homage; I hold the Olyffe in my hand: my words are as full of peace, as matter.

Ol. Yet you began rudely. What are you?

What would you?

Vi. The rudenesse that hath appear'd in mee, haue I learn'd from my entertainment. What I am, and what I would, are as secret as maiden-head: to your cares, Discretion; to any others, prophatation.

Ol. Giue vs the place alone.

We will heare this diuinitie. Now sir, what is your text?

Vi. Most sweete Ladie.

Ol. A comfortable doctrine, and much may bee laide of it. Where lies your Text?

Vi. In Orsino's bosome.

Ol. In his bosome? In what chapter of his bosome?

Vi. To answer by the method, in the first of his hart.

Ol. O, I haue read it: it is heresie. Haue you no more to say?

Vi. Good Madam, let me see your face.

Ol. Haue you any Commission from your Lord, to negotiate with my face: you are now out of your Text: but we will draw the Curtaine, and shew you the picture.

Looke you sir, such a one I was this present: If not well done?

Vi. Excellently done, if God did all.

Ol. 'Tis in graine sir, 'twill endure winde and weather.

Vi. 'Tis beauty truly blent, whose red and white, Natures owne sweet, and cunning hand laid on: Ladie, you are the cruell'st shee aliuie.

If you will leade these graces to the graue, And leaue the world no copie.

Ol. O sir, I will not be so hard-hearted: I will giue out diuers feedules of my beautie. It shall be Inuentoried and euerie particle and vrensele labell'd to my will: As, Item two lippes indifferent redde, Item two grey eyes, with lids to them: Item, one necke, one chin, & so forth.
